Here is the online description: “In this rather long episode (due to updates and corrections in my knowledge), I go over all of the textual and archeological evidence we have for the existence of the Shroud of Turin's images from 30 A.D. to 500 A.D. I assess two Pro-Shroud hypotheses; Ian Wilson's Image of Edessa/Mandylion theory and its use of the Abgar Legend in ancient Edessa and compare that with Jack Markwardt's Image of God Incarnate theory and Jack's notion of the Shroud having been in ancient Antioch for the first 5 centuries. Finally, I also assess the Shroud skeptic's hypothesis that all texts from this period must be referring to something other than Shroud images.” Also available as an audio only link on Spotify.

NEW EVIDENCE: Does THIS PROVE the Shroud of Turin is REAL? – Glenn Beck interviews Barrie Schwartz – July 30, 2023 – Video (11:33) – Here is the online description: “Is the debate over the Shroud of Turin over? Many Christians believe it was the burial cloth of Jesus and even non-Christian scientists struggle to explain how the image of a man was imposed onto it. But some scientists have claimed that carbon dating has proven it is much younger than previously thought. However, Shroud of Turin Research Project Official Photographer Barrie Schwartz joins Glenn to explain why he's refuting that claim. According to Schwartz, who was once a "total skeptic" of the Shroud, the carbon dating was improperly done. Instead, he believes the most plausible explanation is simple: "This is the burial shroud of the historic Jesus of Nazareth.”” Also available is a full length audio only podcast of the program.

[Editor’s Note: Here is a more detailed description courtesy of Joe Marino: “Features interview with Catholic priest exorcist Fr. Carlos Martin. Fr. Martin mentioned he got a 2-inch thread relic, which Dr. John Jackson of STURP confirmed was authentic. Fr. Martin has a fascinating story of what happened when he used the thread in one of his exorcisms. I talked to Dr. Jackson via phone on July 27th. He confirmed the story. He said he and a colleague studied the sample for about 4 months, performed 9 separate tests on it and graded it as “B+” for being authentic—that probably translates to about 93-97% certainty. The clip is from 7:12 – 9:49].”
